The ResearchGate is social network website introduced by Dr Ijad Madisch, Soren Hofmayer and Horst Fickencher in 2008 [1]. It is used to share papers, questions and collaborations. Same time the new research or bibliometric of your area can be downloaded [2]. It is criticized by several scientists due to its unsolicited emailing invitations to the co-authors of its users. However it is good platforms for young researchers to know about common people working in same fields which can be done just via free signup:
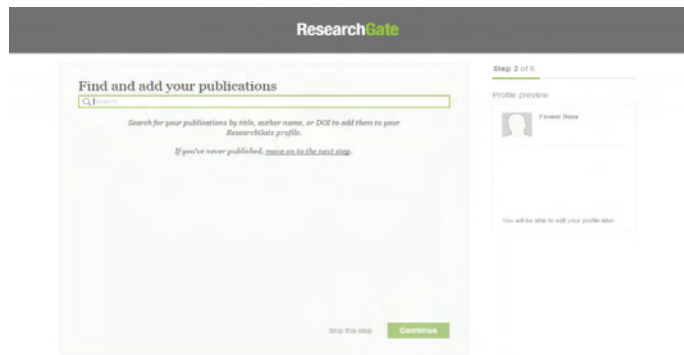

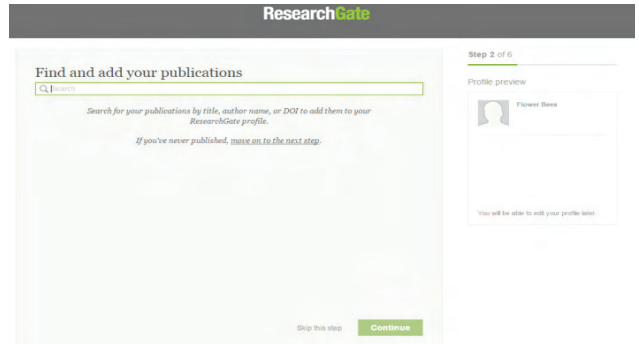

Step 1: Open the ResearchGate website: https://www.researchgate.net/

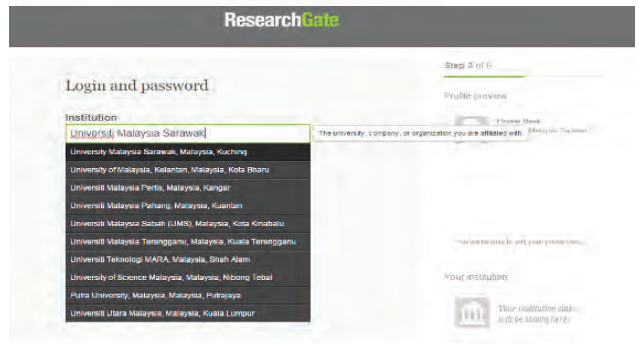

Step 2: Click on the Join for free button:

Step 3: After that insert your first and last name as shown in below figure then click Continue.

Step 4: You will get an option stating that find and your publications. In case you have publications find them otherwise you can skip this step.

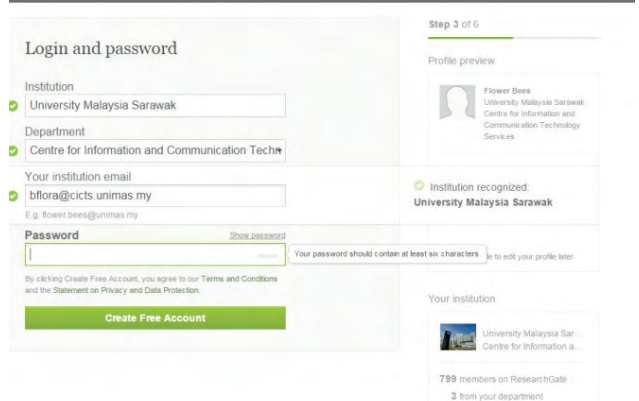

Step 5: The next step choose your university via typing the name at place of Institution.

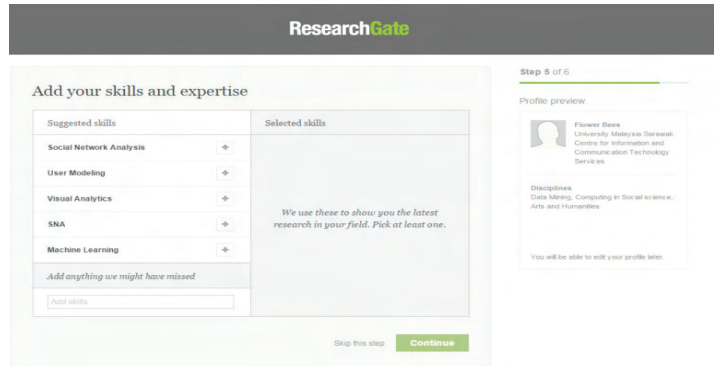

Step 6: The next step it will ask to select your department from the given drop-down list.

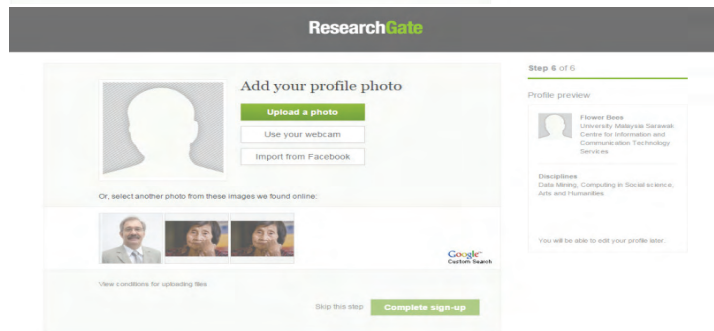

Step 7: The next step write your official email address and set distinct password.
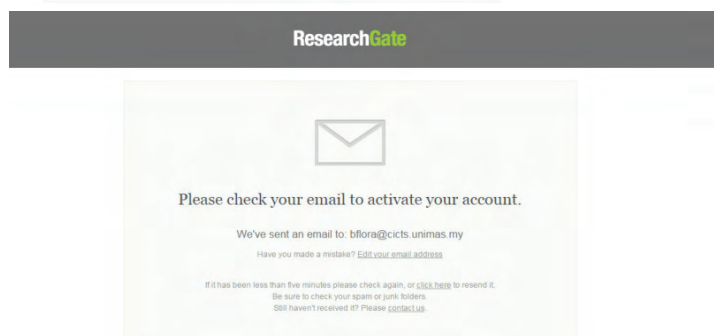

Step 8: The next step write your skills and expertise which can be edited later.

Step 9: The next step it will ask to upload your profile photo and click complete sign-up.

Step 10: Check your given email to activate the ResearchGate account via confirming.
